

2012 – the time of great changes or the next outgrowth of fantasy?

08/05/2011 10:49 by Struski Andrzej

Normal 0 21 A few of the foretold "ends of the world" passed, none of the foretold dates came true not even in any particular form of events not to mention the end of the world.

Â

Normal 0 21 2012 " the time of great changes or the next outgrowth of fantasy?

Normal 0 21 Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â A few of the foretold "ends of the world" passed, none of the foretold dates came true not even in any particular form of events not to mention the end of the world. The final times are not only foretold or indicated by visions, they are simply described at length in the prophecies. It is a fact that no prophecy shows the exact time of the final events. However, a reader that judges in a logical way, discerning and perceptive may refer the indications and the descriptions of the events depicted in the prophecies to a specific time. Such unequivocal references are very difficult to be found in the huge collections of the biblical records and generally accepted prophecies. Next, a lot of different widely available information is passed in such an enigmatic way that it is impossible to show the unequivocal clues that refer to the events or at least to the time when they take place.

Normal 0 21 Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â The vectors that may be led out from the logical reading of the prophecies would be a more sensible set of information that presents this matter in a more precise way. To read the prophecies in such a way one should not approach the reading of them in a traditional and favourite way. First and foremost the one who is reading must completely rid oneself of the needs to fulfil one's own whims in order to find convenient information and information that complies with the standards. Only cold and simple logic that shows the meaning of one word will allow one to read the hidden sense and even to read important information. I know from experience that the key words or even the words - the keys have an identical meaning in different prophecies. Both in the contents of the Old as well as the New testament, in the contents of the Apocalypse, as well as in the prophecies of Nostradamus there are the same keys of the words.

Normal 0 21 Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â However, the most important matter in the interpretation of the prophecies is the acceptance of the assumption that says that the most important are the matters of great importance. These are the matters that will be described and although in an indirect way, however in the whole contents they are discussed. Not to make it so easy the contents recorded in the prophecies are divided into sets saturated with information and into such ones that do not talk about anything important, although they speak about lofty matters that refer to God. Such contents are a true trap for interpreters, these divine matters take their attention to a considerable degree and darken the sharpness of logical reasoning. Thinking rationally and approaching the faith with distance one can read quite a few interesting pieces of information in the prophecies, even the time quite precise is ciphered in the apocalypse.

Normal 0 21

Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Â Struski Andrzej The text above is the text of the author. Copying, distribution only by the permission of the author of the text Normal 0 21